IMMIGRANTS ROBBED IN TWO COUNTRIES.

washington to-day to attend to important to a m. The first witness yesterday, Prancisco Biemonte, said:

I am a native of the province of Contanzaro, in Italy. I owned a little farm there worth 2,000 francs. And worked out by the day for 11-2 to 2 francs. I was persuasied to come to America by Emilio Torelli, an agent of an emigrant society at Naples. I had 200 francs when I left home, but after paying my fare I had very little left, and reached New-York with only $2 in my pocket. At Castle Garden a man took my passport, giving me a card of the Italian Emigration Society, No. 3 Pearl-st. I went there and they told me I could get work by paying a dollar. I asked them when I would be able to get work, and they said, "When God wills it." I have not had one day's work since I came here, and have lived on charity, the 200 francs I borrowed from a friend, and promised to pay him 250 francs at the end of the year. I gove him as security a mortgage on my little farm, and I expect he will attach it, as I am not able to pay. They told me that the Emigration Society here had lands, and that I would get a good place at once. In reality the railroads charged them 78 per cent. At 70 per cent, or the natural rate, Detroit would have to pay $52 50 on a carload of grain from Detroit to New-York points, while at the 78 per cent rate they had to pay 858. At the same time it was claimed that the 70 per cent rate was granted to other points west of Detroit, and in fast to all goints west of Detroit. This diverts thousands of carloads of agricultural products from Detroit.

The respondents, in replying, admit that the facts

ceed 70 per cent of this unit rate, under the long are as stated, but they deny that the same is any loss, or ground for them to accept a like or equivalent price for local shipments between Detroit and New-York. The issue between the two parties is therefore squarely joined, and the case is one of law to determine. The railway companies claim and make as the basis of their defence the doctrine that distance is not the only consideration that may influence the price of ing, inspecting, issuing of bills of lading, switching and many other things should be taken into consideration, and that in these respects Detroit stands at a disadvantance. And they further claim that they must meet competition of other and shorter lines.

RAILROAD WAR IN BOSTON'S SUBURB. MIDNIGHT ENCOUNTER OF EMPLOYES OF RIVAL

Boston, July 31 (Special).-There is a dispute be tween the town authorities of Revere in connection with the Revere Street Railway and the Boston, Revere Beach and Lynn Raffroad as to where the tracks of the latter company shall be crossed by the street rail-way. The town authorities fixed the crossing at the steam road object, and lay claim to the ownership of a part of the land on which the electric road is built. To protect this claim, they have built a fence of the street road. On Monday night the latter road was to try to string its wires over the Occan-ave, crossing. To prevent this the narrow-gauge people two engines and four cars, one upon each track, into 2:15 a. m., when a successful attempt was made to

THE STRANGE ESCAPE OF TWO CHILDREN. Johanna Kobliner, three years of age, and her nger sister, Mary, had a remarkable escape from death yesterday. As they climbed on the lounge, Mrs. Kobliner turned to leave the room. She heard them scream and saw them fall headlong through the window. The children fell about forty feet. OBITUARY

CHRISTOPHER MEYER.

Christopher Meyer, president of the Meyer Rub-ber Company, of New-Brunswick, N. J., died yester-day at his home in this city, No. 617 Fifth-ave. The cause of his death was cancer. He had been suffer ing from the disease for some years, but had been uffined to his bed only two months, and up to that time he took an active interest in his business.

Mr. Meyer was born in Hanover, October 15, 1818. He was a self-made man, and early in life started out to make his way in the world. When only a lad of fourteen he came to this country, unaccompanied by friends or relatives. He remained in New-York two years, working at first for his board and shelter merely. All his spare time he devoted to mastering the language. In 1836 he secured employment at a Newark machine shop, and being both skiliful and industrious he made such rapid progress that in two years he had charge of the erection of the Ramape Mills. He did that work satisfactorily, and his next job was to put up some machinery for Horace Day, then the leading rubber manufacturer of the country, at New-Brunswick. So well did Mr. Day like the young man and his work that he took him into his employ and in a short time made him superintendent of the factory.

Mr. Meyer was of an inventive turn of mind. Some of his inventions added largely to the capacity of the Mills. He came to the conclusion if he could make mency for others that he could make money for himself, and as he was not receiving from his employer what he deemed he was worth, he decided to start in business for himself. He designed his own machinery, borrowed $300 of James Sishop and set up a mill. A good opportunity offering he sold it, started another mill and again sold it. By this time he had accumulated some capital and securing a good site with water-power, at Militewn, some three miles out of New-Brunswick, he erected a factory there. In was successful; as business increased he added to it and the factory now gives employment to a thousand

It was soon proved that Mr. Meyer possessed executive as well as inventive talent of a high order. He took an active interest in all manner of business enterprises. At the time of his death he was gen enterprises. At the time of his death he was general manager, treasurer and principal owner of the New-Jersey Rubber Shoe Company, which also employs about a thousand men. This is an outgrowth of the Meyer & Ford factory which was subsequently relatives and new Bronswick. N. J. Friday a. m. Meyer & Ford factory which was subsequently transferred to Edinburgh, Scotland, and there known as the North British Rubber Company, Mr. Meyer still retaining an interest in it. Mr. Meyer was also president of the Nashawanick Rubber Manufacturing Company, and of the Glendale Elastic Fabric Com- Smith of Broodyn N. Y. pany, of East Hampton, Mass. His rubber interests represented only a part of his investments. It would be difficult to enumerate all the enterprises with which he has been connected. He was a director and a stockholder in the old State Bank, of New-Brunswick, and a stockholder of the New-Brunswick Gasilght Company. He was one of the projectors and owners of the Painesville and Youngstown Raliway, which, associated with Mr. Ford, he built in 18de and paried with his interest in 18d1. Mr. Meyer was a director of the New-York and Boston and New-York and Northern Raliways, a director of the German-American Fire Insurance Company, the Municipal Gas Light Company, and the American Bank Note Engraving Company, of New-York. He was also a leading director in the Cinchnait. Hamilton and Dayton Raliway, and his connection therewith brought him into prominence because of his opposition to the "Young Napoleon of Finance," who at one time tried to borrow $3,000,000 of Mr. Meyer, but unsuccessfully. Mr. Meyer had the money but had not enough confidence in Ives to lend it.

Mr. Meyer was a Methodist, and gave liberally to the St. James Church at New-Brunswick. He was twice married. His first wife, whom he married in 1840, was Miss Margaret Evans, of Belleville, N. J. She died in 1877. He married again in 1880, Miss Effic Chase, daughter of George K. Chase, of this city, John C., who is connected with the New-Jersey Rubber Shoe Company. Kate, wife of George Lowther of this stockholder in the old Stato Bank, of New-Brunswick, who is connected with the New-Jersey R mpany; Kate, wife of George Lowther of shoe Company. Kate, wife of George Lowther of this city, Margaretta, unmarried, and Clara, wife of Charles Greyer, of ins city, and Howard S., who was his father's confidential secretary.

His funeral will take place at the house to-morrow evening, and the body will be taken to New-Brunswick for burial the next day. Mr. Meyer leaves a fortune variously estimated at from seven to ten million dollars.

A LEGAL OPINION ON THE PRISON BILL. Albany, N. Y., July 31 (Special).-The Deputy Attorny-General's opinion on the Prison bill, now in the Governor's hands, has been concluded and will be largely embodied in the memorandum with which the Governor will accompany his signature of the bill to-morrow. The Deputy holds that the term " penal institutions of the State" includes county perfiten-tiaries and the Elmira Reformatory, but it is understood that he is doubtful whether the bill fully provides for the machinery of law to apply the purposes of the bill to these institutions. As only State officials are designated to carry out the law, a more explicit measure will be required from the Legislature before their duties can be applied to county establishments.

BY CARLE TO THE TRIBUNE Copyright; 1889. By The Nove-York Tribune. London, July 31.-Mr. Blaine, who had intended e leave London on Sunday, and visit Oxford, Strotford and other places before arriving at Liverpool, ound himself unable to get away. He remained till to-day, and left by the noon train for Liverpool, with Mrs. Blaine, his two daughters and Miss Dedge. Last evening he dined with Mrs. Marshall O. Roberts in Grosvenor Square. The guests were mostly American, including Mrs. Paran Ste vens, Mrs. Mackay, Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Martin, and Mr. and Miss Endicott. Mr. Blaine's Mugwump friends who expect to see him arrive a wreek will have to endure a surprise. "I never was better, nor in better spirits," he said last night. He makes no secret of his satisfaction with Mr. Harrison's nomination, and proclaims his belief in the certainty of his election. He will not even admit that the contest is likely to be close. " I have." he said, " but one answer to such questions. Mr. Harrison will win." I need not tell you that Mr. Blaine goes home to throw himself heart and soul into the campaign. He is perfectly satisfied with the issue as now framed between the Republicans and Democrats and their renegade Republican allies. The free-trade label is on the Democrats, and there it will stay. The English have shown their hand too plainly." I might quote many more things Mr. Blaine said, but he is going home to say them for himself. He s impatient to get home and join in the fight. He is as full of energy as he is of confidence.

"Don't misunderstand me," he added. "I say we are going to win, and so we are, but we shall win because we are going to make this fight on a square American issue; because we shall make American people understand it is their interests we are fighting for, and British interests which the Democrats are fighting for. We are going to appeal both to their intelligence and their patriotism. The more audiences we can reach, the larger will be our majority. RELATIONS STRAINED TO BURSTING.

UNHAPPY-VERSIONS OF THE TROUBLE. Trouble has been brewing in the 11th Regiment for some time, and the presentation of a sword to Major Frank A. Jones on Monday night was not attended with the harmony and good-fellowship one which was adopted:

Resolved, That while this committee is in session in the City of New-York any two members thereof named by the charman shall constitute a quorum for the purpose of issuing subpoenss, administering oaths, and taking the testimony of witnesses, and a subcommittee of two or three members may be appointed by the chairman with I he powers to conduct an examination of witnesses elsewhere during the time the committee is engaged in said city of New-York, or at any other time or place that the full committee may decide. might expect on such an occasion. The ill-feeling among the officers of the regiment dates back to their trip to Peckskill. Since that time Major Jones and Colonel Stewart have been on exceedingly unfriendly The friends of the Colonel declare that the whole trouble has arisen out of the jealous ambition of Major

Jones, who, in hopes of promotion, has been working steadily against his superior officer. Shortly after the return of the regiment from Peckskill the Colonel sent a blank to the Major that he might fill out his resignation. It was then proposed by Captain Ranken that the officers of the line present the Major with a handsome sword as a token of their esteem for him. The sword was bought, and on Monday night when the Colonel and several of the officers were it the Adjutant's office at headquarters, Captain Miller and Captain Ranken entered the room. Captain Miller re-quested the attention of those present, but the Colonel said that if he had anything to say he might go to the officers' room. "If you have anything to say to me," said Major Jones, "I wish that you would say it here."

"You will please remember," responded Colonel Stewart quietly, "that I am Colonel of this regiment."

Major Jones then stepped out into the hall, where the sword was presented to him by Captain Miller.

Two of the officers of the line, when seen by a reporter yesterday, said that Major Jones had acted in an insulting manner to his superior officer. Captain Ranken, on the other hand, was quite as emphatic in his statements as those of the opposing side. He said that he had wished with Major Jones to keep the maiter quiet until the charges preferred against Colonel Stewart had been acted on at headquarters. He thought, however, that some answer should be made to the assertions made against the Major. Inoth sides are agreed that one or the other must now resign.

THE NAMES OF TOWNS AND HOSTS. Eighteen Tribune Fresh-Air parties left the city Italy. He was another victim of the padrone's "persuasion." He testified as follows:

I left my wife and three children in Italy and came to America, because I was made to believe that work and wages were plenty. I had land planted in olives worth about 2,000 francs. I was very anxious to get money to come, and berrowed 200 francs from a lady, giving her my note for 300 francs, which I am to pay before the 22d day of February next. The agents who were working in my village said wages were $1.50 to $2 a day, but they said nothing about so many being idle. I have only done three days' work and I came out $2 in debt. Everybody has to pay the bosses for work. I want to go back to Italy if anybody will help me.
